Washington News. Washington, January 30 .- A special dispatch says that it is noticeable that the dominant party is breaking into cliques; a portion of it is daily more intimate with the President. General Grant has been summoned by the New Orleans Riot Committee.

A New York Times' Washington special says that it has the best authority for saying that the letter to the London Times, from its Washington correspondent, referred to in a sable dispatch the other day, contains nothing of the kind attributed to it in the conversation with the President. He did not refer to Congress at all.

The Impeachment Committee of the Southern Pepublican Association has prepared a partial list of witnesses in the impeachment case, and will soon suggest their programme for investigating the charges.

A special dispatch says that the Kansas Legislature will undoubtedly strike the word "white" from the Franchise Laws. An autograph letter from JUAREZ, dated at Durango, January 1st, expresses friendliness to the United States, and gratitude for sympathy and encouragement. He approves of SEDGWICK'S measures at Matamoras, and the preventing of ORTE-GA's raid.

Riot with Negroes on the Cheves Planta

SAVANNA. January 30 .- There is further trouble on the CHEVES plantation, in South Carolina. The negroes refuse to vacate or contract. A collision occurred, in which Lieutenant Lemon was shot in the arm, when the fire was returned, killing a negro. It is reported that the negroes have Captain BRANDT a prisoner. Colonel SEBLEY, with seventy men, has gone to the scene.

General News. BALTIMORE, January 30 .- The harbor is still open, and a large fleet arrived and departed. Mrs. McTarnish, daughter of Charles Carroll, of Carollton, has died. The weather is very cold.

Boston, January 30 .- The Prussian, French and Belgian mail bags, intended to go by the steamship Asia, were lost, but subsequently found, and will be sent by the next steamer. The steamship Asia sailed, but took no treasure.

THE COTTON CROP-ITS FUTURE. That most excellent journal, the "Finaccial and Commercial Chronicle," of January 26, contains the following article on the cotton prospects for

In estimating the bearing of these probabilities of a reduced supply upon the value of raw cotton, it is necessary, also, to take into account the prospects of the supply Great Britain is likely to draw from other countries than the United States. With reference to the chief sources of bales, while at this date in 1866 the quantity known to be on passage to Europe was nearly 290,000 bales; and with regard to America, it appears that only 32,000 bales are on passage, against 60,000 bales in 1866. These figures are certainly in favor of continued firmness in the cotton trade; but, as bales."

These combined considerations require a mate rial curtailment of estimates of the total supply from all sources entertained two or three months ago. The reduction may be roughly represented by 250,000 bales for the United States, 250,000 for India, 250,000 for Egypt, and 50,000 for Brazil, maining a total curtailment of original estimates amounting to 800,000 bales. These aspects of the supply have produced a strong disposition among holders of cotton to stand firmly for higher prices; a feeling not shaken by the movement among domestic manufacturers for further curtailing their

The burthen of testimony goes to show that, with the enhanced costs of labor, and the une rtainty about its employment, it is impossible, upon an average, to raise cotton for less than 25 cents per pound; and adding to this the tax of 3 cents and the now heavy charges for transportation, it is clear that there is no inducement to lay out any large breadth of land in the production of the the present condition of the new labor system.

The conclusion indicated by a survey of all these considerations appears to favor very decidedly the prevailing firmness of the cotton market. The War Not Over.

We begin to believe in this favorite principle of Mr. Stevens and his party. A gallant engagement has just taken place in Texas, where "Gen. Griffin" (who is Gen. Griffin") has achieved an exploit which is, for aught we know, his first feat of arms.

Ho has heroically repulsed from a church door the corpse of General Albert Sidney Johnston. It was an opportunity for Gen. Griffin; he had never had nor to meet that gallant chief in battle while life encountered General Johnston at the head of his gray brigades, we imagine that on this day, in Texas, the spectro of the hero would have risen up before him, and he might not have been able to hold the church door. As it was, he had to deal, not even with a Confederate ghost, but with a sad statue, when no human being will know the name of Griffin save as the name of the person who insulted the ashes of a hero. However, it is Griffin's

CHANGES CAUSED BY THE WAR .- In an article on the changes caused by the war in the South, the Baltimore Transcript says:

Misery is said to make strange bed-follows, and the distresses caused by the late war have certainly thrown many Southern men into positions and associations extremely alien to their former pursnits and habits.

"Lord Stafford mines for coal and salt, The Duke of Norfolk deals in malk, The Douglass in red herrings."

Gentlemen once the proprietors of large estates may now be found equipped with yard-sticks, holding plow-handles, or weighing out sugar and coffee by the pound in grocery shops; ladies, high brod dames, who were once the leaders of society, are now taking in sewing for the bare means of subsistence. And happy are they who are able to find such a refuge from the wild beasts of poverty and want. Others there are, and the number is large, who, with families of little children dependent upon them, have absolutely no resources, no means of life, no earthly hope of ultimately escaping the horrors of starvation.

Editor Democrat, La Crosse, Wis. REPORTED VIEWS OF SECRETARY STANTON ON THE SITUATION .- The Washington correspondent of the Boston Post sends the following to that

Hon. John Covode called upon Secretary Stanton yesterday, and there ensued a long and friendly discourse on the status of the country. Mr. Stanton appeared very desirous of discussing the current events of national import, and expressed himself freely. He confessed that from the very outset the disputations of the Executive and Legislative branches of the Government had caused him the liveliest alarm, which, since the movement toward impeachment, had increased to an apprehension of revolution and anarchy. The bur-den of his remarks was in regard to certain acts of the President and Congress, and he pointed gloomily to the deleterious effects of each upon the nation. In parting with Covode. Mr. Stanton remarked; "I aided to place two millions of men in the field to put down the rebellion; three hundred thousand have bitten the dust, and an equal number are cripples throughout the land; and yet, with all this tremendous effort and corresponding the country, in my indement is the down from military service to the native government.

Mr. Stevens introduced the School Bill for the District of Columbia, Congress to pay one-third of the expense. No one to vote who neglects sending their children or wards to school. It was read twice and referred to the District Committee.

The Bill regulating Indian affairs elicited a long to the South and with the disposition of cotts.

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BIFTERS was struggling into notice against the prejudices which everything new, however excellent, is doomed to encounter.

TO-DAY it stands at the head of all the tonic and alterative prepa rations in existence. Its colebrity has evoked many imitations but no RIVALS. Physicians pronounce it the only safe stimulant that has ever been introduced into the sick chamber. In the Hospitals of the Army and Navy the surgeons find it the very best tonic for convalescents, and report it as invaluable for sustaining the vigor of troops on the march, as a remedy for seurvy and all scorbutic affections, and as the only specific for sea-sickness California and Australia have emphatically endorsed it as the MINER'S MEDICINE par excellence, and in Spanish America and all the tropical climates, it is considered the only reliable antidote to epidemic fever.

There is no mystery about the causes of its success. It is the only stomachic and alterative in which are combined the grand requisites of a mild, pure and unvitiated vegetable stimulant, with the finest selection of tonic anti-billous, anti-scorbutic, aperient, and depurativ herbs, plants, roots, and barks, that have ever been intermixed in a medicinal preparation. It is also proper to state that the Bitters are sold exclu sively in glass, and never, under any circumstances, by the gallon or the barrel. Impostors and imitators are abroad, and the only safeguard the public has against them is to see that the Ditters they buy bear the engraved label and note of hand of Messrs. HOSTETTER & SMITH, and the Government stamp over the cork of January 28 the bottle. 6 THE BEST LIQUORS IN TOWN! To Soldiers and Friends of Soldiers. Misfortune has fallen heavily upon Mrs. DONALD soldiers during the late war. The property of her husband is advertised to be sold by the Sheriff on the next sale day, and she will be left without house or home. Many of the soldiers who have been relieved by her kindness have expressed a desire to assist her in this hour of her distress. She labored for no pay during the war, and now asks for no remuneration for her services; but we feel that it would be a lasting reproach upon the country to allow her to be turned homeless upon the world. We therefore propose to purchase the plantation for her. Two thousand dollars have already been secured for this purpose, and we earnestly solicit contributions from all who are willing to assist in this noble work. Send your money as speedily as possible. SARATOGA 'EXCELSIOR" SPRING WATER.

THE WATER OF THIS SPRING IS BELIEVED TO be unequalled by that of any other in the far-famed valley of Saratoga. Its virtues are such as have secured it the high encomiums of all who have used it, possessing, as it does, in an eminent degree, cathartic, diuretic, alterative and tonic qualities. alterative and tonic qualities.

to use the different waters of the several countains which boil up along that remarkable valley, dependent, indeed, upon them for much of the comfort I enjoy, I am usits-fied that the Excelsior Water is as well adapted, as any other among them, if not more so, to the purposes for which they are generally employed. It is very agreeable, strongly impregnated with the carbonic soid, lively and sparkling. * * * I can hearthy and conscientiously recommend it to all who need a gentle catharite and diuretic.

FLORENCE, January 30.—Admiral Pisano has the year, which our readers will find worthy of POMEROY. It explains itself:

Eastern production, there appears to be a general disposition to moderate the estimates entertained a few weeks age. The grounds of this change of opinion in England are thus alluded to by our London correspondent, under date of January 5: "With regard to the cotton trade, it may be observed that although spinners may purchase with served that although spinners may purchase with extreme caution, the present range of prices must at least be maintained, owing to the small quantities of the staple affoat, and the prospect, therefore, of a small importation for some weeks to come. So far as is at present ascertained, the supply of East Indian Cotton affoat is under 100,000 successive advices from India report steadily increasing shipments of cotton to Europe, spinners will evidently continue to operate cautiously in concluding sales. At latest date, viz., December 21, the shipments of cotton from Bombay were progressing at the rate of about 16,000 bales per week, being a considerable increase as compared with the property and as the season for ions weeks; and, as the season for These advices, we know, have been favorable to the growers of cotton in India; hence there can be but little doubt as to the nature of our future ad-vices from the East. In the course of a month or six weeks we shall most probably observe a large six weeks we shall most probably observe a large increase in the quantity of East Indian cotton afloat. In Egypt the crop of cotton has certainly been productive of disappointment. We wore led to anticipate a crop of 600,000 bales, but subsequent advices have reduced the estimate to 400,000, and finally to 300,000 bales. That the crop is by no means so extensive as was announced at the commencement of the season may be consid-

the commencement of the season may be considered certain; but in the present position of the cotton trade, statistics relating to the probable production of cotton in any country should be well authenticated before full reliance is placed upon their correctness. It may, however, be looked upon as certain that the crop of cotton in Egypt is superior to last year, although there is so considerable falling off from the statements made at the opening of the season, with regard both to the extent and quality of the crop. Our latest advices from Alexandria report fair shipments of produce from that port since November 1, but as compared with 1864 there is a falling off of about 7000 Washington, January 30.—The Senate's Finance

Surveying the general condition of the world's markets, it would seem reasonable to expect an active demand for cotton goods during the present-tion of the South and with the disposition of cotton growers, the opinion is strongly cherished that the next crop will be more limited than has been generally expected. There can be no doubt that the profits upon the present crop are too insignifi-cant to encourage an extension of this branch of production. The unwise tax upon cotton bears Appropriations, and an amendment was adopted with great severity upon the growers, and has swiking out the provision for the Legation at swallowed up nearly all the profits upon the crop.

> The Southern crops of cereals, during the past year, have fallen below the wants of that section, and breadstuffs have consequently ruled high; it is, therefore, reasonable to suppose that this year more attention will be given to grain culture and less to cotton-growing; and the more so as those crops are less subject to suffer from the risks of the seasons and the irregularity connected with

He felt that he could not only victor ously repulse the corpse, but also triumphantly insult the mourncorpse, but also triumphantity insuit the mourners. And he did it—alone-he did it. He "caused the body to be laid in the open air, where it remained all day, and was visited by thousands." He thought he was showing his disrospect for the dead; but he was, on the contrary, by his very outrage, enshrining him still more than ever in the hearts of those thousands, and of hundreds of thousands may be will read the tale with het strong. 5-20's of '62 Coupons, 108.

But nobody, we apprehend, will greatly admire his achievement; for albeit a living dog is better than a dead lion; yet, if it "lifts up its leg at the noble beast's carcase," no one admires the dog. The temper of Washington society was illustrated at the Fourth Presbyterian Church last Sunday evening, the occasion being a Sunday School meet-ing. The pastor of the church was absent, administering communion at one of the negro churches of the city, the exercises of the evening being conducted by a brother clergyman. During the meeting, Representative McKee, of Kentucky, was called upon to speak to the children. He complied with the request. In the course of his remarks he alluded to the pastor of the church, and the service he was at that time performing for the
